

An introduction for the people who shape the snow season.

For tourism bodies, resorts, forecasters, data providers and media who want to reach the off-mountain visitor.

Off-mountain audience

Open to partners

feelzlike is the daily decision app for people staying in resort towns near snow. We help the off-mountain visitor answer one question every morning · which mountain do I drive to today? · with live weather, live roads and a fair side-by-side of every resort their town serves.

Why we are writing

This is an introduction, not a pitch. feelzlike now covers ten resort-town regions across Australia, Japan and New Zealand, and we would like to know the people who shape the snow season in those places · tourism bodies, resorts, forecasters, data providers and the media who cover them. If there is a way to work together that serves the traveller, we want to find it.

The audience you would reach

Our users are off-mountain travellers planning the day from the town they are staying in. They are high-intent: deciding where to drive, where to stay, where to eat, and whether today is the day. They open feelzlike before coffee, every morning of their trip.

Where we would love to work together

TOURISM BODIES

Own the basecamp your visitors open every morning, and send qualified day-trippers to your member accommodation and venues.

RESORTS AND LIFT OPERATORS

An accurate, fair representation of your conditions, with a clean link straight to your snow report, lift status and tickets.

FORECASTERS AND METEOROLOGISTS

We would like to feature your seasonal outlooks and forecasts in-app and in our newsletter, fully credited and linked.

DATA PROVIDERS

Official, granular feeds · snow, road, lift, radar · surfaced honestly, with attribution and a link back to source.

TRAVEL MEDIA AND CREATORS

Co-publishing and cross-promotion, and a credited place for your stories in our fortnightly newsletter.

ANYONE WITH A BETTER IDEA

If you can make the morning decision clearer for the off-mountain visitor, we want to hear it.

Our newsletter

feelzlike runs a fortnightly newsletter for travellers, opt-in with double confirmation. It carries conditions and the season's signal. We would like to feature partner content in it

- forecasts, resort news, local stories
- always with full credit and a link back to you.

How we treat your content and data

- Honesty first. We never claim data is live when it is stale, and we say so on the tile.
- Always attributed. Your forecast, your feed, your story carries your name and a link.
- Never misrepresented. We do not crown a winning mountain or rewrite your call.
- We send traffic back. feelzlike is top-of-funnel · the booking, the ticket and the full report happen on your site.

What we are asking

Just a conversation. No commitment, no exclusivity, no cost. If any of the above is interesting, reply and we will find a time. If the timing is wrong, we would still value being on your radar for the season ahead.
