

facebook phase 2 · back the winners

what round one told us, the five ads to run next, and a month of ready-to-paste page posts.

WHAT ROUND ONE TOLD US · 27 JUL TO 3 AUG

AD	CLICKS (AU + NZ)	COST PER CLICK	VERDICT powder alerts	288	$0.19 to $0.32	winner · keep and back it brand	96	$0.17 to $0.41	cheapest clicks · keep conditions · in the mountains	113	$0.20 to $0.32	solid but replaced by fresher tiles conditions · temperature	26	$0.21 to $0.27	weakest by far · cut

- totals: 523 link clicks · $126.71 spent · about $0.24 a click · 46,277 impressions. a healthy first run.
- the lesson: people respond to a reason to come back (powder alerts) and to the brand question itself. generic "check conditions" is weakest.

PHASE 2 SETUP · WHAT TO CHANGE IN ADS MANAGER

1. duplicate the winter 2026 launch campaign (ads manager → tick the campaign → duplicate) and rename the copy winter26-phase2. keep the two country ad sets: australia · new zealand.
2. budget: last round was $10/day per country ($20/day total). step up to $20/day per country ($40/day total) · roughly $280 a week. if the cost per click holds near round one you should see roughly double the visitors.
3. in each ad set, delete both conditions ads and keep powder alerts + brand. add the three new ads on the next page. update every kept ad's website url to the new phase-2 link shown below (so results report separately from round one).
4. run 7 days, then do exactly what you did this time: switch off the weakest, feed the best.
5. japan ad set: planned for next week per your call · say the word and i'll prepare the japan copy (aimed at australians and kiwis planning japan trips, which is also peak japan-booking season).

button choice: still Learn more on every ad · never "Sign Up" (it flips the ad into lead-ad territory and meta demands a lead form).

honest copy rails (unchanged): "free powder alerts" is true through 31 december 2026 · never say "download the app", say "add to home screen · works like an app" · no live-roads or live-lifts promises in ads.

FACEBOOK PAGE · 4 WEEKS OF POSTS (2 A WEEK)

- these are free page posts, not ads · they keep the page alive so people who click an ad and visit the page see a living brand, and meta rewards active pages with cheaper ads.
- rhythm: tuesday = a feature of the app · saturday = timely and conversational (the weekend is when your audience is on snow or wishing they were).
- where the image says "screenshot", take it fresh from the app that week so the numbers are real and current · never post a stale forecast.
- repeat the calendar after week 4 with fresh screenshots · the tuesday features rotate through the app naturally.
