

feelzlike, for people staying in town.

What feelzlike is, who it's for, and how a morning in a resort town actually works with it.

You woke up in town. You've got the day, the family, and a car in the driveway. feelzlike tells you which mountain to point it at · in 30 seconds, before coffee.

Who it's for People staying in a resort town · not on the mountain. The locals' rental, the lodge in Jindabyne, the ryokan in Yudanaka, the pub in Bright, the apartment in Queenstown. You're off mountain by choice · the town is your basecamp · the resort is a day trip you choose each morning.

The existing weather apps assume you've already booked a mountain. We don't. We assume you have a town and three or four resorts within driving distance, and the only question that matters is: where today?

How a feelzlike morning works

1. Open the app. It opens on your favourite town · Jindabyne, Yudanaka, Queenstown or any of ten regions.
2. Glance the photo strip. Live LED-style numbers over a town shot tell you what it feelzlike right now, not four hours ago.
3. Check the road panel. Open · caution · chains required · closed. One line per access road, live from the official sources, with a road cam where one exists.
4. Compare the mountains the town serves. 24h snow, base depth, wind, lift status, snow cam. Side by side. We don't crown a winner · you decide.
5. Drive.

Winter and green season

The town shell is not winter-only. In winter you see snow, chains, lifts and powder. In green season the same town shows the rides, walks and village activities it is known for · like Thredbo's summit chairlift walks and mountain bike park. The town stays the centre of the picture all year.

What feelzlike will not do

- It will not tell you which mountain is best. That call is yours.
- It will not pretend it knows the snow at 3am if the station hasn't reported.
- It will not show data older than the user expects without saying so on the tile.
- It will not bury you in jargon · the language is local to the region.

Live now

- Favourite towns. Save up to three so the app opens straight into the one you are in.
- Powder, wind and road alerts. Follow a town and hear when snow lands, lifts go on wind hold, or a road closes.
- Trip planner. The next seven days stacked across every mountain a town serves.
- Fortnightly newsletter. Conditions and the season's signal, opt-in with double confirmation.

Coming soon

- Carpark fill predictions so you know whether to leave early for the resort gate.
- Early-bird road bulletins between 4 and 6am, before you load the car.
- Offline packs for the drive up where signal drops out.
- More towns across Hokkaido, Hakuba, the European Alps and North America · same town-first shape.
